Germany and Italy Say Enemy Is Beating Retreat From Axis Opposition

British Endeavored to Avoid Encirclement; Russia Bristles

(By The Associated Press)
Germany and Italy reported "complete and overwhelming victory" today in smashing a British counter-offensive after a violent three-day battle in the desert around Salum, Egypt.

"The enemy, overwhelmed, is retreating," the German high command said.

An Italian war bulletin declared the British had thrown "ponderous masses of tanks supported by the best part of the Middle Eastern air force" into the conflict—only to be crushed by the "overpowering impetus" of Axis counter-attacks.

British Middle East headquarters acknowledged that British advance forces—which had knifed as deep as 40 miles into Libya—had withdrawn to "forward positions" on the Libyan front.

This presumably meant that the British had fallen back to their original positions from which the drive was launched.

The withdrawal was executed, the British said, to avoid an encirclement movement by German reinforcements rushed from the Tobruk area and because "we had accomplished our object" of making the Germans disclose their strength.

A growing belief that the Soviet Union will fight rather than yield anything beyond relatively minor concessions to Germany was expressed in usually reliable quarters in London today.

The skepticism that was much in evidence when authoritative circles first took cognizance of reported German troop concentrations along the Soviet frontier has been slowly disappearing. Indications of further military preparations have continued to arrive from Scandinavian and Turkish sources.

Stefani, the official Italian news agency, said the British used "hundreds of American tanks," mostly the newest type known as "Mark Two."

The news agency said the British also used strong forces of motorized troops and a great quantity of artillery and air strength.

Capture of "several hundred German prisoners" and the destruction of large numbers of Axis tanks and guns was officially reported by the British.

London dispatches said the British had captured Fort Capuzzo, just inside the Libyan frontier from Egypt, and had encountered "serious opposition."

In Berlin, Hitler's high command said that the British attempt to drive back into Libya had been "frustrated with extremely heavy British losses" and that imperial troops were retreating under Axis counter-attack in the Salum area.

The Nazi war bulletin pictured the British offensive as an attempt to rescue the siege-bound British garrison at Tobruk, 80 miles inside Libya, where British troops have been encircled for nearly 10 weeks.

A Nazi spokesman said that heavy fighting raged in the Hal-faya (Hell-fire) Pass sector, east of Salum.

The Germans claimed destruction of more than 100 British tanks since the imperial army of the Nile began its offensive Sunday.

Mezzo Is Attacked

On the middle east war front, the British reported that allied columns were attacking the town of Mezzo, three miles west of Damascus, the capital of Syria, and that allied patrols had reached a point only 12 miles from Beirut, the Lebanese capital.

Gen. Charles de Gaulle's Free French troops were said to be exerting strong pressure on the 10-mile road from Kisseou to Damascus, south of the city.

Elsewhere, the British acknowledged that counter-attacking Vichy French troops had recaptured the Syrian towns of Merjayoun, six miles from the Palestine frontier, and Kuneitra, south of Damascus.

The British declared that the French counter-attack, carried out in force with armored units and fierce druse cavalry, had been halted and that the situation was "well in hand."

In the air, the London air ministry reported that big squadrons of R.A.F. bombers, smashing at western Germany for the seventh night in a row, set many fires and inflicted widespread destruction in the industrial cities of Cologne and Duesseldorf.

Japanese Blame Economic Warfare For Parley's End

Cabinet Spokesman Says Japan's Requests Are Reasonable in Dutch East Indies

Tokyo, June 18 (AP)—The situation created by "an intensification of economic warfare" was blamed today by a Japanese government spokesman for a breakdown in negotiations in which Japan sought a greater share in the rich resources of the Netherlands East Indies.

Describing the Japanese requests as "very reasonable" in view of the economic concessions enjoyed by third powers in the Indies, Koh Ishii, cabinet information bureau spokesman, declared:

"If such requests . . . were dealt with on the basis of promoting economic cooperation between Japan and the Netherlands East Indies the solution of these questions would be very simple."

However, with the intensification of economic warfare, the situation surrounding the Indies has made smooth progress of the negotiations difficult.

Ishii's views were expressed in a long statement which reviewed the progress of the trade talks begun more than a year ago and which reiterated his assertion yesterday that "normal relations between Japan and the Indies will by no means be affected by discontinuance of the negotiations."

He commented specifically on the "remarkable activity" recently shown by "Anglo-American capital" in the Indies, particularly in the oil industry and aviation service.

Britain Calls for 13,000 Volunteers To Control Secret Airplane Locator

London, June 18 (AP)—Breaking her best-kept secret of the war, Britain called today for a volunteer army of 13,000 technicians for her newest sentinel—a radio-wave airplane locator on which she pinned her high hopes of winning the fierce-fought battle for mastery of her skies.

Within a few hours after British officials disclosed the devices had been perfected and put into actual war operation by the hundreds, Lord Beaverbrook, minister of state, called for 10,000 men and women to make and operate the radiolocators.

In his appeal, broadcast to America, Lord Beaverbrook predicted "powerful benefits and immense relief" from the invention, credited to Robert Alexander Watson Watt, 49-year-old Scottish scientist who considers himself

Army Cuts Its Plane Plant Force

Production at Inglewood Is Back to 10 Planes Daily; 1,800 Men Withdrawn

Statements Given

A. F. L., C. I. O. Release Statements Opposing Vinson Bill

(By The Associated Press)
A further reduction was ordered today in the number of troops on duty at the Los Angeles plant of the North American Aviation Corporation, with production back to 10 warplanes a day after a strike which lost its punch with arrival of several thousand soldiers.

One battalion of 900 infantrymen left yesterday and another 900 were ordered to depart today. About 2,500 soldiers remained on guard in the wake of the bitter wage dispute.

Wages were the issue in a strike still in progress at another plane factory, the Lock Haven, Pa., plant of the Piper Aircraft Corporation, makers of light planes used in government civilian pilot training.

A government mediator was assigned to the dispute, while pickets patrolled the entrances to the plant, turning away production workers although permitting the entry of office employees and engineers. A. F. L. machinists want present minimum wages of 30 cents an hour for semi-skilled employees and 50 cents for skilled workers, and 75 cents respectively. The firm has offered a flat 10 per cent wage increase.

Common Ground Found
In Washington, heads of the A. F. L. and C. I. O. found common ground: Both issued statements in opposition to the pending Vinson bill which would bar workers from striking within 30 days after disputes were referred to the National Defense Mediation Board. C. I. O. President Philip Murray declared the bill would "force workers to refrain from acting to protect their rights while allowing employers to proceed with attacks on the union." A. F. L. President William Green said passage of the legislation would "aggravate industrial unrest."

Meanwhile a jurisdictional strike of C. I. O. United Automobile Workers at the Douglas & Loman Company, Detroit, threatened to force the closing of several large truck factories because of a shortage of parts.

Between 200 and 300 civilian workmen struck yesterday on construction jobs at two Hawaiian air fields, but they decided to return to work today pending negotiations for pay adjustments. The construction company has offered a sliding scale of $1 to $1.30 hourly but carpenters are asking a flat rate of $1.25.

Longshoremen Ordered Out
A. F. L. longshoremen were ordered to walk out yesterday at Morgan Line piers in Baltimore, Houston and Galveston in protest to federal allocation of the line's 10 ships. They contended this was reducing employment opportunities for union members.

Harvey W. Brown, president of the A. F. L. International Machinists Union, predicted that a strike at 11 San Francisco Bay shipyards would end tonight. He said there would be a secret vote on going back to work, but local union officials declared no ballots had been printed or other arrangements made.

The shipyard strike has interfered with work on $500,000,000 worth of defense orders. Both A. F. L. and C. I. O. machinists walked out more than five weeks ago, asking $1.15 an hour and retention of double pay for overtime. The current rate is $1. The shipyards has offered $1.12 and time-and-one-half for overtime.

one of the boys in the backroom

Details of the device's operation, of course, were withheld, but Clement R. Atlee, lord privy seal, told the House of Commons yesterday it is "a radio that finds the enemy in the darkness, that seeks him out through the clouds. . . . That sends an avenging fighter to the place where he will meet the lurking bomber and bring him to destruction."

Some informed sources said that even in its first limited use the device helped greatly last autumn in the terrific air war and that its increasing use had a bearing on the recent lull in Nazi activity over Britain.

According to the official explanation, the new radiolocator sends out electric waves which signal the locating and course of planes miles away.

It was said unofficially that virtually the same principle has been applied in submarine detection.

U. S. Action Depends Upon Germany; Berlin Awaits Next U. S. Step

Congressional Sources Predict Arming Is to Be Necessary for Safety

U. S. Has Plans

President Says Nation Has Had Plans Since 1918

Washington, June 17 (AP)—President Roosevelt left no doubt today that the United States was ready, if necessary, to arm her merchantmen to meet the threat of submarine warfare.

Whether such action would be taken, informed sources said, probably would depend to a great degree on the attitude Germany takes when Berlin receives the state department's forthcoming protest over the sinking of the American Merchantman Robin Moor by a submarine in the south Atlantic.

Well-informed congressional sources already were predicting that arming of the ships would be necessary, but President Roosevelt avoided any comment on that possibility.

The question of arming the merchant vessels was raised at Mr. Roosevelt's press conference yesterday. The President was asked whether any thought had been given to the subject after the torpedoing of the Robin Moor.

Mr. Roosevelt replied that the United States had plans ready for arming her merchantmen—and had had them ready since 1918.

"Have they come out of the safe yet?" a reporter inquired.

Mr. Roosevelt said not at his request, and let it go at that.

Answering another query, he said he did not know whether congressional authority would be needed to order the arming of the merchant marine.

President Roosevelt preferred to say nothing yesterday on the sinking of the Robin Moor—first American ship torpedoed in the present war. He disclosed, however, that he had read the survivor's report on which the state department based its charge that a Nazi U-boat was responsible for the sinking.

The state department, meanwhile, considered its case against Germany complete in the Robin Moor incident. It was indicated that the testimony of the 11 survivors, who landed in Brazil was ample, but the corroborating evidence of the 33 missing survivors who reached South Africa Monday will also be studied before a note of protest is drafted.

The fact that no lives were lost, officials said, did not affect the government's grounds for protest in the slightest.

Game, Dedication Postponed at Stadium

Owing to the heavy rainstorm that broke over Kingston at noon today the parade, dedication of the new flood lighting system and baseball game slated for this evening at the Municipal Stadium, has been postponed until Friday evening at the same hour, it was announced this afternoon by the department of recreation.

The program that had been arranged for this evening's ceremonies including the motorized parade at 7:15 o'clock, will be carried out in detail on Friday evening, weather conditions permitting.

The Mohawk Giants had been scheduled to play the opening game tonight with the Kingston Recreation, but instead of the Giants the opener will be played Friday night with the House of David team, who had originally been scheduled to play here.

Labor Shortages Noted

Albany, N. Y., June 18 (AP)—The state division of placement says labor shortages have spread to non-defense industries in the New York city area. The shortages, already reported in agriculture and defense industry, have now been found in other businesses, particularly the manufacture of dresses, the division said.

DNB Releases Report on 'North American' Action

Berlin, June 18 (AP)—The dispatch of Germany's protest against President Roosevelt's order closing all German Consulates in the United States brought a momentary lull today in discussion of the tense German-American relations.

The Germans are saying nothing further but apparently are taking the attitude that the next step is up to the United States. American reaction to the German protest is awaited.

Asked whether the episode might be considered closed with Germany's formal presentation of a protest, an authorized spokesman said:

"No. The reaction to our note is awaited."

The text of the protest was not disclosed, the only indication of its nature being a general statement vigorously denying that German Consulates in the United States had been guilty of any conduct injurious to America.

A communique announcing the German step was issued late last night and came as a surprise because throughout the day authorized spokesmen said the matter was being thoroughly and most carefully studied and that Germany would not permit herself to be forced into hasty decisions.

The communique, issued by DNB, official German News Agency, said:

"The North American government in a note on June 16 requested the German Charge D'Affaires to direct German Consular officials within its sovereign territory as well as members of the German Library of Information, the Trans-Ocean Agency and the Railway Company to leave the United States."

"The basis given for the request was that the involved German officials had conducted themselves in an inadmissible manner. The Reich's government has rejected these charges as unfounded and despotic and made the sharpest protest against the North American government's action which is contrary to agreement."

The German protest came close on the heels of an official announcement that the Reich had taken necessary steps to counter American action in freezing German funds.

Here, too, no details were revealed concerning what the German counter measures would be.

Two National Banks Announce Rate Changes

A change in interest rates on Special Interest Department accounts in some National Banks of the city will become effective on July 1, 1941.

Effective on that date the State of New York National Bank and the Kingston Trust Company will pay interest on special savings accounts up to $7,500 at the rate of 2 per cent on the first $2,000 and 1 per cent on the next $5,500 or portion thereof.

B. P. W. Will Ask Federal Funds to Rebuild Viaduct

New Ruling Makes 202 Men Eligible For W. P. A. Force

State Plan Is Expected to Speed Projects Awaiting Completion in Kingston

Work on local W. P. A. projects may be speeded up this summer as the W. P. A. has approved, under a new ruling recently made by State Administrator Lester W. Herzog, an additional 202 men, who will be added to the present W. P. A. forces in Kingston.

That fact was brought out Tuesday afternoon at the meeting of the Board of Public Works when Mayor Heiselman stated that 202 men had been certified as eligible for work on W. P. A. projects.

Several weeks ago State Administrator Herzog announced the lowering of requirements for jobs on the W. P. A. whereby all unemployed men, whether they had been on relief rolls or not, would be given an opportunity of working on projects.

The additional men who have been certified as eligible will replenish the depleted W. P. A. rolls in Kingston and it is expected will furnish enough workers to speed up work on the projects that have been started in the city, including the sewage disposal plant, uncompleted work in the city parks, and street rebuilding work.

Work on the rebuilding of O'Neil street as a W. P. A. project was reported as progressing. There is considerable work to be done in Hasbrouck, Forsyth, Block, Hut-ton and Cornell Parks, including the construction of a wading pool (Continued on Page 10)

Upside Down Course of War Must Be Nightmare to Veterans of 1914 Conflict

By FRED VANDERSCHMIDT (Freeman Special News Service)

Everything is upside down in this war; it must be a never-ending nightmare to the veteran of 1914-18 who thought he had it all figured out in advance. Horses ride in airplanes where by the book they should be charging across the terrain (Holland, May, 1940); tanks in thundering fleets summer heat of the Egyptian desert, where Arab steeds and warriors in bright robes should have the field of battle to themselves (Salum, June, 1941).

Now in the never-never land of Syria, ex-ally kills ex-ally, because both, in a sense, are combatting their original enemy, one in continuing battle, the other in the morass of defeat.

Letter Will Request Route 28 Be Made Wider as Vital Defense Route

By unanimous vote the Board of Public Works at its meeting Tuesday afternoon adopted a resolution requesting Superintendent Arthur W. Brandt of the State Department of Public Works to seek federal funds with which to replace the present Washington avenue viaduct and the bridge over the Esopus creek while Mayor Heiselman plans to write the state department urging the widening of Route 28 as far as Oneonta.

From time to time the board has been considering the viaduct on Washington avenue which will shortly have to be rebuilt or replaced by a new structure. With national defense the chief project before the nation the board believed that the road between Kingston and Oneonta, the most direct way through the Catskill mountains, should be made a four-strip road.

After discussing the matter thoroughly the board adopted the resolution requesting Superintendent Brandt to request an appropriation from the $250,000,000 fund for national defense that has been introduced in Congress which will be used in the rebuilding of roads and bridges as a defense measure and the construction of a network of strategic roads for defense purposes with "flight strips" to serve as emergency landing and take-off fields for war planes. An amendment to the measure also authorizes the repair of bridges where necessary in the highway system.

The Washington avenue viaduct was erected more than a quarter of a century ago, while the present bridge over the Esopus creek was erected some years later.

Government Bars All Nazis From Leaving Country 'Pending Instructions'

Boards Formed

Review Groups Will Pass on Applications for Visas

Washington, June 18 (AP)—A strong German protest on the expulsion of Nazi consuls from the United States was delivered to the State Department today, and Summer Welles, Undersecretary of State indicated it would be flatly rejected.

The note was taken to Welles by Hans Thomsen, German charge d'affaires.

In announcing its receipt, Welles declined to disclose the contents of the note except to say that it was a protest against the State Department's order Monday that all German consular officials leave the country by July 10, on the grounds that they had engaged in activities inimical to the welfare of the United States.

Welles added, however, that arrangements were being made for the departure of the consuls.

This was considered tantamount to an announcement that the German note would be rejected outright.

Control Is Planned

Washington, June 18 (AP)—Sharper control over immigration into the United States is to be instituted before July 1, authoritative sources declared today, a few hours after the government had barred the departure "pending further instructions" of any of the 330,000 German nationals now living in this country.

To effect the new strict control over movements of aliens, boards of review will be established to pass on all applications for immigrant visas, after each application has been thoroughly investigated.

Applications for the annual quota of 153,774 immigrant visas at present are passed on by field offices of the immigration bureau after—so Attorney-General Jackson told Congress—"a rather haphazard" investigation of the prospective citizens' qualifications and history.

The state, justice, war and navy departments will have one representative on each of the five boards of review to be set up, it was learned, with the possibility that the Federal Bureau of Investigation of a special immigration investigative agency will also be represented.

The army and navy representation on the boards, it was learned, is particularly designed to prevent fifth columnists or subversive agents of other governments from entering the United States in the guise of immigrants.

The customs and immigration services to prevent any German nationals from leaving the United States "pending further instructions" was characterized as one more move in a general plan to tighten control over the 5,000,000 aliens now here, as well as over the entrance of thousands more, many of whom describe themselves as refugees from German-occupied territories.

There was a quick repercussion in Germany from the state department's request, made Monday, for withdrawal of consular officials of the Reich from this country. Without divulging details of the German reply, DNB, official Nazi news agency, announced that the Reich had rejected the American charges of subversive activities as "unfounded and despotic" and had made "the sharpest protest" against the action.

The immediate objective of yesterday's order barring departure of Germans from the United States, official sources said, was to make sure that no German national attempted to evade the White House proclamation "freezing" European funds in the United States.

U. S. Can Control Movements

At the same time, it was pointed out in official quarters, the new restrictions make it possible for the United States to control the movement of Germans into Mexico and other Latin American Republics where anti-American propaganda and subversive activities on behalf of the Axis powers have been reported.

Legislation now before Congress would empower the President to control the entrance or departure of all aliens or citizens to or from the United States. The President's order, which temporarily serves the same purpose as far as German nationals are concerned, ordered the customs, immigration and border patrol services to "cover all possible means of departure

Contest for Name To Be Conducted By Local Y.W.C.A.

Improvements on the new Y. W. C. A. camp near High Woods have been practically completed, and the camp now awaits an official name. Members of the Y. W. C. A. who have names to suggest are asked to send them to the "Y" office not later than next Thursday, June 26.

The suggestions should be signed with a fictitious name and accompanied by a sealed envelope in which the sender's real name should be given. There is no limit to the number of names to be submitted. The judges are Mrs. Joseph M. Fowler, Mrs. Raymond Rignall and Miss Adiska Conro.

Plans are being made by the education committee to have a formal dedication service at the camp on Sunday, June 23, at 3:30 o'clock, and members and friends are asked to reserve the date.

The first group to have an overnight camping party are the So Hi Club girls who will go up on this Friday, while the Business Girls' Club will spend the week-end. From that time until the end of July, the Girl Reserves will use the camp, starting with the annual outing Monday, June 23. Further details regarding the camp schedule may be secured by calling the "Y" office.

Feed Rationed Nazis

Kiel, Germany (AP)—Plenty of fish, especially herrings, were provided Kiel's population by the Royal Air Force after a recent night raid on this city. Although it is a fish story, a correspondent of the Berlin Zwoelf-Uhrblatt says it is authentic. The RAF bombs must have exploded amidst a big school of herring. Thousands of dazed or dead herring were dashed ashore or floated into Kiel harbor the next morning as a welcome extra ration. The newspapers' correspondent didn't specify whether it happened to be a meatless day. But he went on to say that the population brought buckets-full of fish back into town and fishermen made record hauls.

Flag Dedicated

Highland, June 17—On Saturday afternoon under the auspices of Lloyd Post 193 of the American Legion a new American flag was dedicated and presented to the First Presbyterian Church, with impressive ceremonies at the church preceded by a parade through the village.

The flag was presented by Major Gifford Hallock, commander of the Post, and the Rev. Devello S. Haynes, pastor of the church made the acceptance speech. The main address was by Walter A. Clark, a past commander of the post and chairman of the Americanism committee. Major Hallock also made a short speech.

The parade was headed by Clifford B. Carpenter and Harry Slater, two members of Lloyd Post, they were on horseback, and followed by the national and Legion colors, a color guard composed of Jesse Alexander, Fred Visconti, William Thompson and John N. Relyea, all in uniform. In turn came a delegation of Legionnaires in command of Major Hallock and the Boy Scouts led by their Scoutmaster, Dr. Carl F. Meekins.

As the new flag was raised on the pole in the church yard all joined in singing "the Star Spangled Banner," to music sent over a public address system.

The Dorcas Society will hold a special business meeting Tuesday evening, June 24, at 8 o'clock in the Reformed Church house. All members are urged to be present as plans will be made and date set for the August fair.

Riches Missed By Hair
Discovery by Prospector Gibson of tin in paying quantities on an abandoned claim at West Wyalong, New South Wales, recalled to old timers that gold worth $250,000 was once overlooked in that field. Because the camp cook moved to another field the prospecting party quit the workings. Years afterwards others found the gold only inches from the place where the early prospectors abandoned their task.

IF YOU WERE A SOLDIER . . .

Put yourself in this picture: A young man in the early twenties, you have left a job you like and held in abeyance all your plans for the future in order to do your stint in the army. Like thousands upon thousands of other young fellows, you have done this cheerfully because you feel it is your duty. Somewhat to your surprise perhaps, you learn that army food is good, the officers are human beings and in general military life isn't as bad as you had feared. But you make other discoveries that are not so pleasant.

You learn that your camp of 40,000 men is located near a town of less than 10,000 people. You find that its recreational opportunities are totally inadequate to serve an army. On your days off there is nothing much for you to do but wander around the streets. The town has a few pool rooms, a tiny movie theatre, and one or two dance halls where you can hire a partner for a dime a dance. But even these "recreational facilities" are denied you because thousands of fun-seeking soldiers have jammed them far beyond capacity.

You discover that there isn't a decent place for you to wash up, nor even to sit and rest when you get tired of tramping the streets. All in all, you feel that your day in town away from the routine of military training has been demoralizing rather than invigorating.

Faced with the prospect of more days like this you certainly would welcome with open arms the plan of the United Service Organizations to operate service clubs for soldiers in the town near your camp. You would feel that it is a patriotic duty for citizens not serving in the armed forces to make sure that American soldiers had decent off-duty recreational facilities.

This newspaper is of the same opinion. We feel that through the United Service Organizations every citizen is enabled to take an active part in his country's defense program. The campaign for $10,765,000 to operate 360 service clubs is now in progress. It is an outstanding opportunity to express in concrete form appreciation for the sacrifices young Americans are making to keep safe our freedoms and liberties!

Kingston's share in this worthy cause has been placed at $4,700. This amount calls for the wholehearted support of all residents of the community. A solicitor will call on you some evening this week for financial support. Before making your contribution it might be well to consider the many sacrifices the youth of our city are making in the service of our country.

Here is a great opportunity to express in a tangible as well as patriotic way our appreciation of these services.

ADOLF AND JOE

That threatened war between Germany and Russia may be a mere bluff, to fool the world and then jump onto the free countries when the latter have their guards down. But if it proves to be the real thing it won't seriously annoy the democracies.

Of course we can't get very enthusiastic about any kind of war anywhere. But it seems obvious that in so far as the Nazis and the Bolsheviks may choose to wear themselves out against each other, there would be little regret if they ate each other up. There would be a lot of outsiders ready to stand by and shout "Go it, Hitler—go it, Bear" as the battle proceeded.

CHINA'S NEED

The Chinese people have endured much and have suffered over a longer period than the European victims of aggression. Few Americans seem to realize either China's service to civilization and human freedom or China's desperate plight. Today the country is suffering from a frightful lack of medical supplies. It has orphans and homeless and sick and injured human beings by the millions. Americans must do something about China now, and it should not be a pacayunish token of sympathy.

The United China Relief Committee, from today and until the end of June, will try to raise $5,000,000 for aid to China. Every thoughtful American, every sincere patriot, should contribute as much as he can to that fund. As a regional director of the committee says, "Those of us who have thought at all deeply or seriously about the war in China know that upon its outcome may well depend the fate of democracy, not only in Asia, but throughout the greater part of the civilized world."

The Chinese have been holding back the tide of aggression and oppression for years. It is time they had ample reinforcements of medical supplies and any other aid they need.

AUSTRALIAN LOCUSTS

Those antipodean "Aussies" are certainly air-minded. A dispatch from Melbourne says that a call for recruits in the Australian air force has brought 160,000 applications for enlistment in that branch of the service.

There are differences among races as regards air-mindedness and flying ability. The Japanese, for instance, seem to lack a gift for flying. The British have shown themselves better than the Germans. The Australians, a special breed of Britishers, may be still better.

You can almost see those 160,000 Aussies pouring into Europe like Milton's swarm of "locusts warping on the eastern wind."

We could almost pay for national defense with the money we spend for unnecessary hats and neckties, but it wouldn't be fair to the haberdashers.

The Duce seems to think he's an ace, when he's only a two-spot.

The clothing people don't wear nowadays would equip an army.

The French people seem to have forgotten their "Marseillaise."

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)
ARE YOU GETTING ENOUGH SLEEP?

When you read that Thomas Edison kept well with four hours sleep at night and Woodrow Wilson required not less than ten hours, you may wonder just how much sleep you really need. Both Edison and Wilson were brilliant men so that it would appear that the amount of brains or mental ability does not enter into the matter of estimating how much sleep each of us needs.

That heredity has much to do with the amount of sleep an individual needs is seen in almost any family, including your own. If you resemble your mother and she required but seven hours sleep, you are likely to get along with seven, whereas if you resemble your father and he required nine hours, you are likely to need nine also although there are always exceptions to this rule.

Further, there are degrees of sleep and one who sleeps "heavy" for seven hours may be getting more rest than one who sleeps "light" for nine hours.

Some find it hard to "get off to sleep," tossing about for an hour, while others state that they get to sleep as soon as their head touches the pillow. Research workers tell us that the average time required to get off to sleep is twenty minutes.

Experiments show that if we can get our mind off things (blank), and cut off outside influences such as light and sound, sleep will come on sooner.

How are you to know whether you are getting sufficient sleep? Nathaniel Kleitman, University of Chicago, in his book "Sleep and Wakefulness," states that the outstanding effect of lack of sleep is fatigue of a portion of the brain resulting in making a good natured individual cross or angry, slight injuries more painful, and there is failure to perform ordinary work with the usual degree of speed and correctness.

"In general, individuals deprived of sleep for short periods of time are not affected to any real extent as to heart rate, blood pressure, rate at which body processes work, appetite and richness of the blood.

Before blaming your day time tiredness or sleeplessness to need for more sleep, make sure that no infection is present by consulting your physician and dentist.

U. S. FOOD STAKE

Even though the war stopped soon, it would be a long time before Europe would be on a self-sufficing basis in livestock products. After the war, a large part of the world will be looking to the United States for food. Whether we can give it to them may decide how much weight the United States will have at the peace councils. No, I'm not afraid of storing up too much food now. Remember that thousands upon thousands of our own people have never had enough of the right kinds of food. We can put the food we store up to good use here and abroad. A part of any program for the defense of democracy is to be certain that our men, women, and children have enough good food to keep them strong and healthy.—Claude R. Wickard, Secretary of Agriculture.

PONTOON!

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

Washington—It isn't often that Washington gets any laughs out of Wall Street. But there wasn't a giggle in the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Treasury Department, the Commerce Department, or any other agency that has anything to do with the crossroads of America and formerly world finance when it was chucking or roaring the other day when they received copies of "The Bawl Street Journal."

It's "The Wall Street Journal's" annual "competitive kidding edition"—and this year, the old timers tell me, the men on the street are long on comedy and bulling the market as never before.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau's favorite gag led off a column called "Washington Haywire"—a Broadway columnesque observation that Morgenthau's new theme song for Wall Street is, "I'll Be Down To Get You With the Taxes, Honey."

There was also a crack at the dollar-a-year men in the item that "Business leaders are criticizing their associates in firing burg (Washington) for spending too much time with New Dealers."

Among the serious strikes causing hemming and hawing in capital circles, the Bawl Street Journal gives its attention to the spider strike. "Spiders webs are a defense item," the Journal reporter noted. "The government hired bugman to raise spiders to spin webs from which threads can be made for crosslines in firing sights. The spiders laid down on the job, issuing the ultimatum 'We won't spin by a bomb sight!'"

Poking the SEC in the ribs, the Journal's capital correspondent reported: "The SEC will look in to N. Y. stock exchange trading of the last week, following reports that trading had topped more than 10 shares in one day. SEC officials want to know if investors actually are buying again? Or is this a move to corner the market?"

There was not only one but three puns on Emil Schram, the new stock exchange president, and all three were the same: that the exchange membership hereafter is to be known as "Schram and eggs." The boys must love that one.

'Curb Service

One of the stories most often read over the capital beer mugs had nothing to do with Washington. It was one to the effect that the New York curb exchange finally inaugurated real curb service.

"Thirty girl clerks handled the deals at the curb, all young shapely specimens, with blondes and brunettes about evenly divided, and a sprinkling of redheads. All were attired in shorts, military type boots, monkey jackets and plastic helmets with chin straps, the color scheme scarlet and buff.

"Strict supervision was and will be maintained over these beauties. The girls are not allowed to give tips."

Ad Writers Joined In

Some of the best chuckles came from the Wall Streeters' own ad writers. One brokerage company bragged, "Our stock may be down, but it's never out!" another that it was the "originators of the matched and lost order system;" a third urged "Take us into your confidence and we'll take you."

The Chase National Bank, observing that many persons and firms had changed to Chase, wanted to know: "Why Don't You Go Chase Yourself."

Another brokerage house, referring to its proximity to Old Trinity churchyard cemetery, at the upper end of Wall Street, moaned: "Still next to the churchyard! One foot in the grave, but it's a long time since we had one in the graveyard."

All in all, those capital officials who could get their hands on a copy of "The Bawl Street Journal" (the demand far exceeded the supply) agreed that this was one year Wall Street panicked Washington.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

Although women were given the opportunity to vote for the first time in 1918, evidently the majority of them displayed but little interest in enrolling in the parties of their choice that year, for the final registration of voters by parties showed but 2,284 women enrolled.

Of that number, 1,166 enrolled as Republicans; 397 as Democrats; 715 as Prohibitionists; and but six as Socialists. In Kingston there was a total enrollment of women of but 183 women Republicans; 54 Democrats and 45 Prohibitionists.

Turning from the political to the religious it is interesting to recall that in June, 1918, the Board of Public Works purchased the Delaware Avenue Tabernacle for the sum of $1,200 and planned to use the huge wooden structure as a warehouse.

The tabernacle was built in the fall of 1917 for the Peacock revival services which were held there during January and February of 1918. The huge tabernacle cost $3,500 to erect and was financed by the congregations of the Rondout Presbyterian Church, Wurts Street Baptist Church and Trinity Methodist Church, who sponsored the revival campaign which was attended by thousands.

In June, 1918, Franklin Lodge, Knights of Pythias, presented the city with an American flag to be flown in Forsyth Park, and I recall that during that summer a series of band concerts, sponsored and paid for by the city, were held at Kingston Point Park. The band that summer was the Colonial City Band with George H. Muller as director.

It was also in June that year that Lester Legg, well known local plumber, was appointed a member of the police force to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Policeman John G. Boyd, who had been fatally hurt when the trolley car he was riding on was struck by a West Shore train on the Broadway crossing. Two other men lost their lives.

It was also during the summer of 1918 that "farmerettes," young girls from the schools and universities made their appearance on farms throughout Ulster county where they worked on the farms, picking fruit and doing other farm chores. The girls were while at work single piece costumes known as bloomers and blouse in one.

Fourth of July in Kingston in 1918 was appropriately celebrated with a huge parade followed by patriotic services on the lawn at the city hall with Judge William D. Cunningham of Ellenville as the orator of the day.

Mayor Palmer Canfield presided and the Rotary Club presented the city with a service flag. The presentation was made by Arthur C. Connelly on behalf of the club.

Miss Virginia Loskamp, contralto soloist of the Rondout Presbyterian Church sang "There's a Long, Long Trail" and the Rev. P. C. Weyant of Trinity Methodist Church and the Rev. John H. Briody of St. Joseph's Church also participated in the exercises.

Many of the early Buddhist temples in China had revolving bookcases.

Ikkes Is First Member of Cabinet to Give Defeatist Statement About War
(By DAVID LAWRENCE)

Washington, June 18.—The first member of the cabinet to utter a defeatist statement about the war is Harold Ikkes, secretary of the interior. At a time when the American people are being urged not to accept the Lindbergh doctrine—that America cannot possibly help England win the war—Mr. Ikkes publicly acknowledges there is a possibility of America's defeat and attributes that theoretical defeat not to anybody in the government of course, but to one industrial company. Here are the secretary's exact words as testified to under oath before a Senate committee:

"Well, when the story of this war comes to be written, it may have to be written that it was lost because of the recalcitrance of the Aluminum Company of America. It is just as serious as that, and they are just as helpful and cooperative as that, too."

This is a strange thing for a member of the President's cabinet to say for if the public mind is now to be concentrated on who is responsible for the failure of the United States to be better prepared for war than it is at present, it may well be that the people will begin asking pertinent questions as to what the President of the United States and the secretary of war and secretary of the navy and the Congress itself were doing month by month from September 1939 to the spring of 1941 when the first really comprehensive military defense program was launched by the administration.

It wasn't the president of the Aluminum Company's business to decide how many airplanes should be built for the army or navy and hence to estimate how much aluminum was going to be needed. That was the business of the President of the United States or his assistants. It was also the business of Congress which as late as March 1940—more than six months after war broke out—authorized for the army 166 planes when it asked for 1,000.

The Aluminum Company of America happens to be the principal source of supply for aluminum in this country. Instead of cooperating with the Aluminum Company, these last three years, the Roosevelt administration started a campaign of persecution in the courts and did everything it could to break up the company at the very time when it should have been doing everything it could to stimulate production. Even now the members of the Roosevelt administration have conspired to bring a competitor to the Aluminum Company into the field, furnishing government funds and carrying on a smear campaign with the idea of discrediting the Aluminum Company before the public.

The latter corporation invested $200,000,000 of new capital last year in expanding plants notwithstanding the persecution of its executives by the department of justice and the department of the interior. This is more money than had been invested in the whole aircraft industry in September 1939.

Mr. Ikkes seems much more interested in the charge that the aluminum company is supposed to be a monopoly than he is in getting national defense requirements fulfilled. He admits in his testimony before the Senate committee when the aluminum company on February 4th last asked for more electric power from the Bonneville Dam, the secretary refused it. His excuse was that the law forbade him to give too much electricity to a "monopoly." Hence a political controversy seemed to him more important than national defense. Finally rather than give the aluminum company the electric power it needed to make more aluminum, Mr. Ikkes insisted that the government start its own plants. This means months of delay. In other words the public ownership doctrine of the New Deal was given priority instead of national defense.

Mr. Ikkes seems disturbed because the OPM in November 1940 issued a statement saying there was enough aluminum for defense needs and that an official of the aluminum company testified on May 16 last that there was enough for national defense. Mr. Ikkes insists that this is inaccurate, but he is not fair enough to tell the public that military requirements as of those dates were the only ones on which the aluminum company could base its estimates. The records of the war department will show what aluminum the government itself thought it needed for airplanes in each month of 1941. The records will also show that the aluminum company doubled those estimates last January in figuring out what it could supply for defense and that it was not until the President a few weeks ago decided on the large bomber program that the new estimates of 1,400,000,000 pounds of aluminum came into the picture.

The Nazis have a way of picking scapegoats to blame when things go wrong. In America the New Dealers have already picked out American industry. If the war it lost—so the alibi now reads—it will not be the fault of the administration in power which happens to have had control of congress and the taxing power and could order airplanes in quantities sufficient to aid Britain. It will be the fault of American industrialists of course who should have expanded their plants without waiting for orders or for any war department estimates of materials needed.

The American industrialist is the new scapegoat to blame and Secretary Ikkes with characteristic unfairness starts the smear campaign in behalf of the same administration which is asking for national unity is calling on the American people to make extreme sacrifices to help win the war to preserve democracy.

Stamps IN THE NEWS

By the AP Feature Service

Sweden's Bible stamps have arrived in the United States. The large oblongs are in blue for the 90-ore and in brown for the 15-ore.

Design for the stamps is a scene showing Olaus Petri and Laurentius Petri in the act of presenting their Bible to King Gustavus Vasa.

A 19th century engraving by J. G. Sandberg was source of the picture.

Proof that mail does get around and back if it doesn't catch up with a fast-moving foreign correspondent is the return of an envelope this week to The Associated Press in New York. Originally sent to Thomas F. Hawkins, at Stockholm, Sweden, the envelope tried to catch up with him in Budapest but missed out there April 8, and got back to the United States June 4. It started out in February.

Mexican parcel post stamps in 10-centavos and 20-centavos values have appeared in brilliant purple and carmine oblongs. The design includes a freight train with locomotive. The purpose of the "stamps for packages" is shown in the inscription, "Sobre cuota para Bultos Postales."

Collectors desiring first day covers bearing the new 6-cent airmail stamp June 25, Washington, D. C., may send addressed envelopes to the Washington postmaster with cash or postal money order only to cover cost of the stamps. Covers should be pencil marked in the upper right corner to show the number of stamps to be affixed. Collectors desiring select stamps of this new issue also may send their order to the Philatelic Agent cy, Washington, D. C., instead of to the postmaster.

Philatelists are excited over the recent Philippine stamps which show Dr. Jose Rizal's hair parted on the wrong side.

Convention Plans Made by Firemen

Annual Event This Year Slated for Woodstock

Tentative plans for the annual convention of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association were discussed Tuesday evening at the monthly meeting of the association in Pine Hill. Friday and Saturday, September 5 and 6, were fixed as tentative dates, with the business sessions on Friday and the annual parade on Saturday.

The annual convention and parade this year will be held in Woodstock where the association will be the guests of the Woodstock Fire Department.

Tuesday evening's meeting was the first the county firemen have held in Pine Hill as the guests of the Pine Hill fire department. The guest speaker of the evening was County Commander Waldron DuMont of the Delaware County American Legion, who spoke of the cooperation of the American Legion in that county with the sheriff's office, which has provided Delaware county with a police force of 1,000 available men under a county-wide defense program.

Commander DuMont outlined a defense program that had been built around the eight Legion Posts in Delaware county. The men chosen have been deputized and also work in cooperation with the fire departments in that county.

The meeting last night was attended by volunteer firemen from all sections of Ulster county and was held in the Funcrest Hotel.

Premier's Swan Lives

Seven white swans and an Australian black swan shared a stretch of water in a South Coast area in England. The black swan belonged to Prime Minister Churchill, from whose Kent home it had escaped. In a heavy raid all the white birds were killed, but the black one was unhurt. Knowing it was the property of the Premier, local people consider this a happy omen, according to a London report.

The First Papermakers

The common wasp which makes big, ball-like nests in the trees, was the first papermaker. For hundreds of years men have experimented in making paper, using various materials but have come back, for most paper requirements, to the very same material the wasp uses—wood pulp.

The first men to make paper were the Chinese—it was so many years ago that historians cannot set a definite date.

Arabs and Moors plundering Chinese Turkestan brought back captives, some of whom were papermakers and, as the Moslem law provided that they might win their freedom by working at their trade, papermaking became known outside of China.

Then the Crusaders came marching and the secrets of papermaking moved farther west. Papermills were established in Spain, Italy, France, Switzerland, Holland and finally in England.

It was not until 1690 that the first papermill was established in America, near Philadelphia. Today in this country statistics show that the average citizen uses, in one way or another, over 226 pounds of paper per year. This totals twice as much as the meat he consumes and indicates the giant proportions to which the paper industry has grown.

One negro was worrying about the chance of his being drafted for the army. The other consoled him.

"There's two things that can happen, boy. You is either drafted or you ain't drafted. If you ain't you can forget it; if you is, you still got two chances. You may be sent to the front and you may not. If you go to the front you still got two chances; you may get shot and you may not. If you get shot, you still have two chances; you may die and you may not! And even if you die, you still has two chances."

Doing an injury puts you below your enemy; revenge on him makes you but even with him; forgiving it sets you above him.

Husband—I don't mind you buying these things, my dear, but I would like to have a voice in the matter.

Wife—You have a voice in it all right—the invoice.

'Cause Women Differ
Three girls, or women, sit and talk; they're chummy and they're gay.

One leaves; and, nine times out of ten, what do the others say?

Now, I ask you this question, friend: (That is if you're a gal)

When that one leaves, do you speak up, and compliment your pal?

Or do you think of all her faults, and say: "She's nice, but my!"

And then go on for telling all, that she done wrong—and why?

You're feminine—and you're not stolid, said Sherwood joining them. "Will you three help me with these wires?"

Annex complied hastily, suspecting his motive, glad that he had diverted Larry.

"I'd like to get this thing going," he continued, putting the ear phones on his head. "It may pay us to get in touch with Shani Lun."

The instrument, finally set up, still refused to work. The men started to go over it again.

The door opened suddenly and Dr. Martaine came in. His face was bloodless and his pale grey eyes shone with repressed emotion. He looked from one to the other of them and then made directly for Anne. She rose from her chair to meet him.

THE SACRED DAGGER

By RITA MOHLER NANTON

YESTERDAY: Things in the Asiatic camp of the Willards are rapidly approaching a climax. Mr. and Mrs. Willard are captives of the Nagara tribe, which guards Shy-a Nago, the hidden city. Anne is appointed to release them, but cannot get to them as yet. And Blaise Sherwood, whom Anne loves in spite of herself, is in the Willard camp although Anne believes he is working against her parents. Now mysterious drums have aroused the whole party.

Chapter 27

The Nagaras Come

IN the silence that followed, Anne felt the drums again. "Let's go make some coffee," she cried. "No one can sleep."

They strolled towards the mess hut. "I'd like to set up that radio now," suggested Sherwood. "You can never tell what's ahead of you in this country. I wonder if I should mention it to Oliver?"

"Let the poor devil sleep," advised Larry. "He needs it. When I came by his tent he was snoring like a baby. I hadn't the heart to wake him."

Anne was glad to hear that Philip rested. He'd walked out of the mess hut like a man in a trance. She felt he was close to a breakdown.

The girls, rummaging in the kitchen, found coffee and fat little Chinese nut cakes. In despair they gave up trying to build a fire of thorn roots in the mud stove and resorted to the alcohol primus Dr. Martaine used in his chemical work. The men stopped labor on the radio to share the food.

Sherwood stood apart by the mantel. After a moment of self-conscious hesitation Anne took him a cup of coffee. His voice said "Thank you," and his teasing eyes kissed her lips.

"Sugar and cream?" she queried.

"So are you," he murmured. She made a little face at him and then noticed Beth watching curiously. Mackey dropped his eyes as her gaze swung to him. She moved away hastily and let Sherwood drink his coffee back.

Presently Beth went to the door and came back. "The drums are still at it," she said.

Mackey rose to start work on the radio again. "If I had my way," he declared, "you'd all be in the truck on your way to Chuka."

"What? Don't you believe in surrendering to Destiny?" Anne asked.

"What's it ever got Blaise?" he growled.

"You'd be surprised if I told you," answered Sherwood.

Anne gave him a startled glance and flushed at the half-threat in his grey eyes. A knock at the door banished the cross currents tangling the air. Doddap came in carrying Anne's silver studded belt with its precious burden, the Nagara dagger.

"Put it on," he said to her.

"Well—" she began, then took it and fastened it about her slender waist. "Why?" she demanded.

"That's where it belongs." He turned and shuffled out. She looked up and met Sherwood's eyes. He grinned and shrugged. The young Huffs looked at the belt curiously.

"Come on, be a sport, show us the dagger," begged Larry.

Anne put a hand on the sheath. Sherwood was watching her narrowly.

"I don't like to touch it," she said slowly, and explained the peculiar feel of the weapon in her hand. "As if it really were possessed," she explained.

"Perhaps that's because you're a rather high strung person," suggested Larry.

"Am I?" she asked in surprise.

"You're feminine—and you're not stolid," said Sherwood joining them. "Will you three help me with these wires?"

Anne complied hastily, suspecting his motive, glad that he had diverted Larry.

"I'd like to get this thing going," he continued, putting the ear phones on his head. "It may pay us to get in touch with Shani Lun."

The instrument, finally set up, still refused to work. The men started to go over it again.

The door opened suddenly and Dr. Martaine came in. His face was bloodless and his pale grey eyes shone with repressed emotion. He looked from one to the other of them and then made directly for Anne. She rose from her chair to meet him.

Man In Torture

"MISS Willard," he said, "since I cannot give my resignation to your father, I notify you that I am through here."

"Why—why, yes," she faltered in bewilderment. "Have you spoken to Philip about it? He—"

"I have no intention of speaking to Oliver," he answered stiffly. "My position here is unbearable. I want to leave on the truck for Chuka in the morning."

The others in the room could not help overhearing. He made no effort to keep the conversation private, yet he managed to exclude them. Anne stared at him helplessly.

"Dr. Martaine, if there's anything I can say or do—"

"I'm sorry, Miss Willard, there's nothing."

"At least write father a personal letter and I will see that he gets it."

He nodded. "I'll be glad to do that. Your father is a fine man to work with."

"Is—Is Diana going too?" she stammered.

"I'm going alone." She walked with him to the door.

Silence of the Floodtime

Carlsbad, N. M. (AP)—For 18 years the fire department siren sounded, on the second, at high noon. Then an amateur town crier spread the word, when a flood threatened, that three dams might "burst loose any minute," and if they did the fire siren would blow.

Nathan Wright, the whistle blower, heard about it. "We're afraid to blow the darn thing any more for fear folks will head for the tall

"Dr. Martaine, I wish you'd reconsider."

"That's quite impossible, Miss Willard. I'll write that letter and I have some packing to do." The doctor closed behind him.

Anne turned to the others.

"I'm surprised he put up with her as long as he did," said Beth. Larry merely shrugged his shoulders. Mackey continued whistling on a splinter. Sherwood alone looked troubled.

"That's bad," he said. "I thought Martaine could take it. He knew her temperament when he married her. Diana's a fascinating woman. He won't gain anything by leaving her."

"He may gain peace of mind," remarked Beth.

Sherwood gazed at her. "Not if she's in his blood, and I think she is."

Beth raised a speculative eyebrow. "If she's so fascinating why didn't you marry her yourself?"

"Maybe I wasn't meant to," he grinned and turned to his work again.

"If the Nagaras don't come tomorrow," said Anne suddenly, "I'm going to them. Things can't continue like this any longer: Dr. Martaine leaving, Philip acting like an idiot—" she glanced at Sherwood. "—the Chinese governor interfering with the expedition. Everything is falling to pieces."

No one had anything to say until Sherwood answered without looking at her. "I imagine that drumbeat we hear means they're coming—but I'd like to get this radio working first."

"And I'd like to get a little rest," said Beth curling up in her chair. "I'm a fiend for excitement but it's been overdone around here lately."

Anne lay down on the couch. She felt someone throw a blanket over her. The subdued voices of the men died out. She stood in a vast stone temple as thickly pillared as a virgin forest. Curling incense plumes swirled through the air, like writhing dragons riding the soundwaves of rolling drumbeat. Suddenly a crash woke her.

The Escort

"THE Nagaras!" someone had shouted.

It was dawn and a giant yellow man in striped sheep-lined coat and felt helmet was swinging a broad sword above the radio, blow after blow.

Other white-clothed men had crowded into the room carrying medieval scimitars, battle axes, and dirks in their hands though each had a rifle swung across his back. They lined the white men up along the wall and searched them for weapons.

Dr. Martaine was already present. Anne saw Oliver appear in pajamas and dressing gown, ushered in by a pair of tribesmen. Diana came in, demanding imperiously to know what had happened. The cooks were squealing in the kitchen. Anne rose to her feet.

"It is all right," declared Sherwood urgently. "Though the camp has been captured no one is being hurt."

"Yet," muttered Mackey. Doddap was brought in. Beth started to leave her chair and shrank back at a sharp word from one of the invaders. A slim, black bearded man appeared and ordered the giant to cease his senseless hacking on the radio which had been beaten into the table, and the table into the floor.

This slim bearded man seemed to be the leader, though he also wore the felt helmet with the turned up brim of five petals points. He addressed the white men in his own language. No one understood, except Sherwood for a word or two.

Then Doddap answered the captain. They palavered back and forth for a while. The lama turned to Anne.

"They're come to conduct us to the high priest, they say, that you may prove you are the seed sent by the Gods to reveal to the world the secrets of Shy-a Nago."

The dagger gleamed at Anne's side, its green eye luminous in the faint dawn light. She took a step towards the man who backed away respectfully.

"Prove!" she demanded. "What must I prove? That I'm my parents' daughter? I was given the dagger."

"And you accepted it," he reminded her sternly.

Anne looked around distractedly. Both Diana and Beth were crying. The white men ranged along the wall stood absolutely helpless. More burly tribesmen crowded into the room. Suddenly Anne realized that many of these fighting men were women, true Amazons, dressed like their men and as fierce of eye.

"What if we should decide not to go on with this?" she asked. "Give back the knife and ask the return of my parents?"

"It is too late. Your parents have seen the treasure city."

"And Blaise has put himself in the same trap," she thought despairingly, noticing that he alone of the white men had been bound—his hands tied behind him.

"Tell the captain," she directed Doddap, "that no harm must come to our innocent associates."

"No harm comes to innocence. The high priest awaits you in the mountains. Be ready to travel soon, he commands. Only the servants and soldiers will be left behind. The tribesmen have brought sufficient horses for the rest of us."

The chieftain cleared the room of natives except for a guard at the door. Trembling Chinese cooks brought in the breakfast. The white men, including Sherwood with his hands shackled, were allowed to roam about the room again. Things relaxed a bit; Larry made a feeble joke.

Fire Loss Here Exceeds Average

Report Is Based on Data for Five-Year Period

New York, June 17 (Special).—With a movement on foot in most cities to organize auxiliary fire forces and develop civilian defense plans for fire emergencies, the 1941 Municipal Year Book has made a detailed study of existing fire protection in Kingston and 687 other cities.

It shows that the annual fire loss in Kingston during the five-year period through 1940 amounted to $174 per resident, which was much higher than in the other cities of its size classification, 25,000 to 50,000 population, which averaged a $103 loss per capita.

The cost of this fire protection in the city last year amounted to $70,000, or $2.41 per person. In other cities of its size the expenditures came to $3.10.

The nation's 1940 fire record shows a loss of $300,000,000, caused by 685,000 fires, half of them in dwellings. The principal causes were smoking, which started 87,000 of them, sparks on roofs, 79,500, defective or overheated chimneys and flues, 58,000, and electrical fires, 35,000.

The survey points out that there is a shortage in fire apparatus now for municipal replacements because large quantities have been bought and ordered for army commitments.

Action Stations at Dawn!

(Second of three articles)

ABOARD H. M. S.—AT SEA—

A British sailor in dripping oil skins thrust open the door of my cabin, snapped on the light.

"Four A. M. sir. ACTION STATIONS!"

And he was gone.

In a few moments I heard the clatter of running feet on deck; muffled orders.

When I reached the bridge, I saw nothing unusual in the murky darkness. It had been raining, but now it was clear and dark.

Nobody excited. No orders flying about. Just tense silence, as if we were waiting for something. In a few moments a sun still invisible cast a pale white light over the water to the east. It happened quickly as if a giant curtain had been raised. Before us, I could see clearly to the eastward. Back of us to the west, it was still black—blacker than night by contrast.

On the decks below, I now could see the crew of our ship. Every man aboard was on duty, at attention, ready for immediate action.

I was to learn soon what this all meant, and to understand from what I saw how the Hood and the Bismarck could have hit each other in a five-minute action at sea in the murky light of the dawn.

As soon as it became light, and the sun climbed to the horizon, the crew retired, some to duties, some to sleep. The tension lessened, except on the watchful bridge. All seemed to be normal once more.

What It Means

"What," I asked our commander, "is this action stations business?"

"Dawn," he replied, "is the most dangerous moment in every 24 hours at sea. It lights the eastern side of you in a matter of seconds. Objects at sea suddenly become visible. Our ship and the enemy might be cruising within a few hundred yards of each other all night, without spotting each other. But we could be revealed to each other at the instant of dawn. The crew with their hands on the trigger is the crew that survives, much as your west-enders survived because they were fast on the draw. It's a common practice in all navies in wartime."

I was learning things about navies aboard this lend-lease craft I had boarded the night before in New York. I had learned that warships not only have automatic blackout systems, but use canvas to double their protection against a chance peep of light.

And soon I was to understand how they were ever alert, yes, even when they were observing the English ritual of tea.

How To See New York

Below in the ward room we were soon comparing notes and customs.

A reserve officer with a handsome chiseled face, and keen blue eyes was bubbling over with enthusiasm for American women, for Philadelphia and New York.

"Ah, your women," he said. "And New York. Clean. Beautiful. On my last day in the States, I had a last long look from one of your tall buildings with a tall cool glass in my hand."

Above decks, all was business. Constant oiling, cleaning, investigating. One day I ran across the executive officer with a big ring of seamen around him.

FAST WORK: The British crew tries out an American 50-calibre machine gun designed to fight low-flying airplanes. "The lend-lease ships bristle with these guns." Beatty writes. "The officer spent 10 minutes with the crew, and the sailors manned the gun as if they had been used to it all their lives."

"We've never fired these American guns," he was saying, "so I'll explain."

After 10 to 15 minutes demonstration and discussion he asked if there were any questions. There were none. A gun crew stepped forward. Ammunition passed.

"Ready! Fire!"

Several times in quick succession our English crew let go with an American big gun they had never seen before, and quickly as if they had been doing the job all their lives. Then they cleaned her up again, oiled her some more, with all the care that Mrs. Smith would give her pet kinkadee.

An officer patted one of our 3-inch anti-aircraft weapons.

"Nice gun," he volunteered. "I want to be there when she cracks a Jerry bomber on the nose."

Getting Acquainted

Our senior officer present put the squadron through all the paces he could think of. Within 24 hours, our engineer knew what his power would do, and how it would do it. Gun crews, depth bombers, cooks, signalmen, electricians knew what all their new gadgets would do, where every wire led, every speaking tube.

The engineer, for one, was amazed at the speed he could get out of a single engine.

The commanding officer was enthusiastic, too.

"Top line, these ships," he told me.

Flag Is Presented At Olive Bridge

Mrs. J. A. Jackson Makes Gift on Anniversary

A large silk American flag presented to the Olive Bridge Church by Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Jackson in honor of their 53rd wedding anniversary, was dedicated with appropriate services in the church Sunday.

An interesting address on the life of George Washington was delivered by the pastor, the Rev. Bernard Eaton.

The services were largely attended and there was a delegation of Boy Scouts from West Hurley in charge of Charles Decker present.

Miss Ludwig sang a solo and Arthur Trowbridge of Olive Bridge also spoke. A group of members of the Junior League gave an interesting playlet, "I Pledge Allegiance," under the direction of Miss Ludwig and Mrs. Henry E. Schlabborn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson.

Proclaims Registration

Albany, N. Y., June 18 (AP).—Governor Lehman today proclaimed July 1, between 7 a. m. and 9 p. m. according to local time, for registration of eligibles for military training who have attained their 21st birthday since last October 16, date of the first draft enrollment.

Those liable for Selective Service will register, he said, with draft boards in their particular localities. Any male who had not reached his 21st birthday last October and who for any reason has failed to register also must sign. Lehman's proclamation asked employers to give all workers sufficient time to register and warned those eligible that failure to appear will "make them liable to arrest and imprisonment in the manner provided by law."

Hail Strikes City

Late This Morning

A sharp hailstorm, with stones running half an inch or so in diameter, struck the Kingston area shortly before 11:45 this morning. The storm seemed to be localized in the Kingston area, although slight hail was reported toward Saugerties. There was none at Port Ewen, New Paltz, or along the Plank Road according to residents questioned.

The only damage reported was from the Elmendorf fruit stand on the Hurley road, where it was stated that the storm lasted for perhaps a quarter of an hour and it was feared that fruit and vegetables had been damaged.

Gross B. Schoonmaker of Accord stated that it was not even raining in that section.

Dr. Seeley Is Ill

The Rev. Frank B. Seeley, D.D., pastor of the Fair Street Reformed Church, was reported improved slightly today at the Kingston Hospital where he was taken Tuesday afternoon. Dr. Seeley has been ill at his home on Maiden Lane for the past three weeks.

DRESS HAS GAY CONTRAST NEWS

Marian Martin

PATTERN 9747

O course you want at least one "sure-to-get-attention" dress this summer! This smart Marian Martin frock, Pattern 9747, will be the most arresting style in your wardrobe, yet it's one of the most easily made frocks you've ever seen. The unusual effect is achieved by using gay, colorful print for the revers and the optional wide skirt band. The very new and smart "sleeveless" look is shown in tiny caps that are cut in one-piece with the bodice. Darts at the shoulders give nice, smooth lines. Part-way seams in front hold the bodice softness in place while the back has fluid, graceful princess lines. If you prefer to use one fabric for this style, you might add color with ordered only in misses' sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards; 35 inch fabric and 3/4 yard contrast.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins for this MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS, and STYLE NUMBER.

Summer Fashion begins at home — with the Marian Martin Pattern Book! Hurry—order your copy today—and plan a colorful, complete wardrobe at your own price! ### Consumer Buying Changes Due to Defense Program

The House ways and means committee last night agreed in principle on a $1,255 million increase in taxes corporations will have to pay on their 1941 earnings. The additional corporate tax levies will be in excess profits taxes. The most important change over the present law is a requirement that excess profits be computed before, rather than after, income has been reduced by federal corporation income taxes. It also is proposed to reduce the invested capital credit, which now exempts from excess profits tax income up to eight per cent on capital. New permissible return would be slightly more than six per cent.

The huge defense program and the higher taxes it makes necessary, expenditures now running around a billion dollars a month, is resulting in widespread changes in consumer buying. Those businesses catering to factory workers, who are enjoying a boom that exceeds 1929, will be in closer, with department stores particularly being benefited. Already they are showing the best first half sales since 1929. Manufacturers and retailers catering to the medium and high income groups, the white collar workers and others, are likely to find business lessened.

The automobile industry can't make much sense out of talk about a sharper curtailment of auto production beginning August 1, says E. S. Duffield, chief of the Wall Street Journal's Washington Bureau, who writes a series of articles surveying the defense program as seen by industry. He claims that top executives in the industry are unanimous in believing that the industry can turn out on time all munitions now required of it and still produce automobiles after August 1 at the rate of 80 per cent of the present year's production.

Peter R. Nehemkis, Jr., of the O. P. M., says that many small non-defense industries may be eliminated by the defense program. Said ten industries, with basic raw supplies curtailed by priority ratings, must close or enter some form of defense production. Predicts not less, but more idle machines; no less, but more unemployment.

Stocks resumed their upward movement Tuesday, with volume higher on transfers of 403,880 shares. The Dow-Jones average of 30 industrials more than made up its losses of the preceding three days and had a net gain of 1.17 points, to close at 123.12, best level of the day. The rail average gained .09, to close at 28.19, and the utilities moved ahead .30, to 17.85. Commonwealth & Southern led the list of most active stocks and closed unchanged, but the preferred rose more than four points.

All deliveries of cottonseed oil, soy beans and lard went to new seasonal highs Tuesday. Cotton went up 80 cents to $1 a bale. World sugar and cocoa were strong on fears of further shipping space restrictions. Silk futures were highest since early 1940 and active deliveries sold over $3 a pound.

Will Leave for England

Ankara, Turkey, June 18 (P)—Twenty Turkish aviation cadets were to leave today for England, where they will be given intensive training as fighter and bomber pilots by the Royal Air Force. Additional groups may be sent to England in the next few months, it was announced, and graduates will join the faculty of the Turkish Air College.

Miller to Get Hearing

Ralph C. Miller, 21, of R.F.D. 1, Saugerties road, was arrested by the police Tuesday afternoon charged with operating his automobile while not wearing eye-glasses as required by his operator's license. The case was set down for a hearing later in police court.

New York, June 18 (P)—Gains

as much as a point for many leaders gave the stock market a generally higher aspect today.

The turnover, which previously had been lively, slowed to a dribble toward the final hour, making the rate of transactions about 550,000 shares for the session.

Leading the upturn, in continuation of yesterday's trend, were U. S. Steel, Youngstown, Bethlehem, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, Western Union, American Smelting, American Can, duPont, Eastman, Air Reduction, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania Railroad and Union Carbide.

Bonds were fairly steady. Commodities moved irregularly higher. Curb issues on the rise included Pittsburgh Plate Glass, Royal Typewriter, Singer Manufacturing, Heyden Chemical and New York Shipbuilding founders shares.

Missed His Meal

Atlanta, June 18 (P)—A one-legged man who climbed an 80-foot water tower at the federal penitentiary, stripped down to his shorts, yanked off his wooden leg and pounded the metal tank finally came down when his antics drew scant attention from prison officials. The prisoner, identified by prison officials as Robert Cales, 30, serving 18 months from Atlanta for forging a $10 order, descended just in time to miss his evening meal last night.

Flash Bomb Is Tested

Rochester, N. Y., June 18 (P)—Army air corps photographic experts under command of Lieut. Col. George W. Goddard have tested a new and highly secret silent flash bomb over the waters of Lake Ontario. Lieut. Col. Goddard divulged nothing about the tests conducted last night, which were similar to last October's experiments in which were used explosive bombs.

Moonbeam Hits Judy

Hollywood, June 18 (P)—Judy Canova really didn't intend to be married when she went to Honolulu. But she slipped a moonbeam and "hit me on the head." So what could a girl do? Judy married Corp. James H. Ripley, she said reluctantly on her return by Clipper plane. The reluctance, she added, was because "I didn't want to shock my mother, who is seriously ill, or my mother, who didn't know of my plans for getting married." Miss Canova, a slightly hilly in the movies, met Ripley in Jacksonville, Fla., her former home. Ripley was placed in the army guardhouse at Honolulu as a penalty for being A.W.O.L. Saturday night. That's when the moonbeam slipped up on him and Judy.

Evacuation Completed

London, June 18 (P)—Voluntary civilian evacuation of Cyprus, British crown colony in the eastern Mediterranean, has been completed, a Reuters, British news agency, dispatch from Nicosia said today.

June Hits Cafe Society

New York, June 18 (P)—June has dealt New York's cafe society a smashing blow. For marriage is taking their No. 1 glamor boy and their No. 1 glamor girl. Victor Mature, the dark-haired hero of the stage and screen, was married to Martha Stephenson Kemp, widow of orchestra leader Hal Kemp, last night in the bride's Park Avenue apartment. Along with that came news that Brenda Diana Duff Frazier, she of the $50,000 debut in 1938, is going to marry John Simms (Shipwreck) Kelly, former pro football star, before the month is out. The engagement was announced by Brenda's mother, Mrs. Frederic N. Watriss, who said her daughter—heiress to a $3,500,000 fortune—and Kelly, her constant companion for months, would be married at the Ritz-Carlton "sometime before July 1."

Odds Against Billy Conn's Victory Over Champ Louis Have Lengthened Steadily

Public Opinion Predicts Early Win for Louis; Bout to Be Heard on Station WJZ

By GAYLE TALBOT
New York, June 18 (AP)—The biggest, richest prizefight crowd since the second Louis-Schmeling battle three summers ago will surge into the Polo Grounds tonight to watch Joe Louis defend his heavyweight championship against Billy Conn of Pittsburgh. The fight will be broadcast over WJZ at 10 o'clock.

The big negro's 18th defense of his title promised to draw more than 40,000 and to gross approximately $400,000, as compared with the $1,000,000 that flowed into Promoter Mike Jacobs' treasury the night Louis crushed Max Schmeling in less than a round.

Conn Has Supporters
The most popular opinion was that something very much like that was due to happen tonight to Conn, though the 23-year-old challenger had plenty of supporters. The odds against the former lightweight king were lengthening steadily in the Broadway markets. Last night it was possible to get odds of seven to two against his winning, and one commission man estimated he would be offering a solid four to one against Billy by nightfall.

Five special trains from Pittsburgh and a half-dozen others from scattered cities poured fans into town this morning. Boston fans were known to have chartered 20 planes.

Donovan Won't Officiate
Joe and Billy will square off for their 15-round bout at 9 p. m. (E. S. T.). In the outside event of rain they will put it off until tomorrow night. The best information is that the referee will not be Arthur Donovan, who, unfortunately for him, has become known as Louis' "house referee."

A good guess is that Billy Cavanaugh, West Point boxing instructor, will be the third man. This will be the first heavyweight title fight at the Polo Grounds since the famous rough-house between Jack Dempsey and Louis Angel Firpo back in the "golden age" of boxing. And it will be Conn's first outdoor appearance here, his other bouts having been staged in Madison Square Garden. Louis was expected to show an advantage of about 25 pounds. There was some incidental wagering last night that Conn would scale under 175.

Conn Is Happy
Louis remained at his Greenwood Lake training camp last night, motoring in today for the weigh-in. Conn took his final exercises yesterday in a hot gymnasium in the city, and appeared completely happy for the first time since he began training. Billy is a city boy and never had any use for the fresh air out at Pompton Lakes, anyhow.

Some promoter down in Texas is trying to arrange a tour of the tank towns between Tony Galento and Kingfish Levinsky. . . . They would mix four or five times weekly and the melees would be billed as "The Battle of Bums," which apparently is quite satisfactory to both gladiators.

Rigney in Last Game
The defeat of the Yankees was an 8-7 decision handed down by the Chicago White Sox. They started Johnny Rigney on the mound for his farewell pitching appearance before being inducted into the army Friday. He made three hits himself and held the Yanks to three in the first six innings, but fell apart to give up five runs in the seventh and eighth. Finally he had to be removed with the score tied and Jack Hallett received credit for the victory.

The Boston Red Sox and Detroit Tigers divided a double-header. The Red Sox scored eight runs in the seventh to take the first game, 14-6, and Detroit retaliated with four-run frames in the ninth to win, 8-5. Rudy York homered with the bases loaded in the first encounter and with one on in the ninth.

Mort Cooper regained his winning stride with a six-hit performance as the St. Louis Cardinals pummeled the Phillies, 11-3, thus maintaining the Redbirds' firm hold on the National League lead despite a 7-6 10-inning victory by the Brooklyn Dodgers over the Chicago Cubs.

Wyatt Wins Tenth
The Dodger triumph came on a three-run homer by Jim Wyatt in the first of the tenth. It proved sufficient to offset a two-run homer by Hank Leibler in the Cubs' last turn at bat and brought Whitlow Wyatt his tenth win, even though he didn't finish.

Carl Hubbell coasted to a 6-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates when the wildness of Rip Sewell helped the New York Giants pile up a five-run lead in the first three innings.

The Cincinnati Reds hopped on Art Johnson for four runs in the first inning and gave Paul Deringer easy sailing to a 5-3 verdict over the Boston Braves, although he gave 10 hits.

Fights Last Night

O'Rourke will coach Brooklyn this season. Note the dog (lower right) eyeing the newlyweds.

Measles Hit Crew Member of College Team in Training

Jayvee Crew Athlete of Bears Is 1st Victim; Shells Continue to Try-Out Course

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 18 (AP)—Members of the University of California crews, quartered here in preparation for the Poughkeepsie Regatta June 25, were peering anxiously into mirrors today, and hoping they couldn't see spots before their eyes.

The alarm was caused by a case of measles which yesterday made its appearance in their midst. The victim is Marshall Robertson, No. 3 man in the Jayvee shell.

Meanwhile, Cornell covered the four-mile course for the first time and Coach Harrison Sanford described the time as satisfactory. Syracuse also went the distance, but the scull's progress over the last mile was handicapped by the wash from a tanker.

Washington, the classiest-looking crew, took a double drill yesterday, easing up in the afternoon after a heavy morning workout. The Wisconsin varsity was not impressive in its work, although the Badger freshmen eight looked good.

Princeton will not take a time trial until tomorrow, although the Tigers are going through two long workouts daily.

California Bears Nose Out Trojans in Mile Relay; Steers Sets 6 Feet 11 Inches

Los Angeles, June 18 (AP)—Two new world records were offered for official recognition today in the annual dual track and field competition between the Pacific Coast Conference and the Big Ten.

California's four man team surpassed the world mark in the mile relay, barely nosing out the University of Southern California and Oregon's Les Steers soared to new heights in the high jump with a leap of 6 feet, 11 inches.

In the final event of the meet the California quartet of John Reese, Fay Froom, Clarence Barnes, and Grover Klemmer captured the mile relay in record time of 3 minutes, 9.4 seconds.

Klemmer, unaware that his father had died a few hours before, held off a gallant threat by the Trojan anchor man, Hubert Kerns and gave the event to his mates by inches.

The time beat the world record of 3 minutes, 10.5 set by a Stanford team of Shaw, Clark, Williamson and Jeffrey last year.

Steers made the record jump on his second try and broke his previous high mark of 6 feet, 10 1/2 inches.

Louis Has Advantage
New York, June 18 (AP)—Champion Joe Louis will have a 25 1/2 pound advantage in weight when he meets Billy Conn at the Polo Grounds tonight in the 18th defense of his heavyweight crown.

Louis weighed in at 199 1/2 pounds today while Conn, former light heavyweight champion, balanced his weights at 174. The weather man cooperated today in tonight's heavyweight title fight by forecasting "partly cloudy and moderately warm." The temperature is not expected to go below 65 degrees.

ANDY CELUCH
The only infield holdover from the 1940 baseball season for the Kingston Recreation is popular Andy Celuch, defensive third baseman and a dangerous batter at all times. Celuch started to make a name for himself last season under the regime of Manager Carl Husta. Andy's hitting was a sensation of the club all season. Now with bigger things in view for the Rees this summer, Celuch is expected to play a big part again in the success of the club. Celuch will make his debut under the lights for the season Friday night at municipal stadium.

Misses Perfect Game
A single in the third inning by a member of the Holy Name softball team prevented Frank Nerone from hurling a no-hitter against that club in the Catholic League last night. Nerone, hurling for the St. Colman's team of East Kingston, was untouchable except for the lone single. The score was 13 to 1.

Letus and Guziak were mound workers for the losers and were hit freely for a total of 11 hits. Ten errors were committed in the game.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "The Personality of a House," "The Book of Social Usage," etc.)

Rules of Good Manners—Never Point at a Person—Groom Receives Invitation to Own Wedding When Social Secretary Handles Mailing—Hostess Do Not Wear Hat at Tea

One of the first rules of good manners that every child must be taught is "don't point!" Above all, "don't ever point at a person!" This last is never permitted... except at a clown or a daring performer at the circus. You may point at an inanimate object when directing someone working at something beyond your reach, or at an object in an exhibition. Also, if you take a visitor to look at the scenic glories of your state, you may quite properly point to details in the distant panorama. But when you walk in the street, or are anywhere among people, never, never point at anyone or anything. In other words, to the letter asking, "Is it good manners to point an index finger?" the answer is NO in capital letters.

Groom Invited to Own Wedding?

Dear Mrs. Post: Is the groom supposed to be sent an invitation to his own wedding? This sounds absurd to me but a friend who is helping me address my wedding invitations, says this is correct.

Answer: She is right if the invitations are sent by a social secretary and the groom may otherwise miss the thrill of seeing his name engraved beneath that of the bride. (Don't pretend there is no thrill in this for a man in love!) In case where the invitations are addressed at the home of the bride by members of her family and perhaps even with the groom's assistance, an invitation would not be sent him.

Brother and Sister Complication

Dear Mrs. Post: A brother and a sister, both middle-aged, live together. Neither one is married, nor ever has been. Will you tell us how friends can address one invitation to them, or send one greeting card to include both?

Answer: It is not correct to address them both on one envelope. On the other hand, although it is not best form, neither is it bad when expense must be considered, to address the inner envelope of a wedding invitation to both, and the outer envelope to the sister alone. A greeting card might also be addressed to whichever happens to be the greater friend of the sender, and the other one included in a message written on the card. A written note of invitation to both would quite correctly be worded: "Dear Miss Jones, will you and your brother dine with us, etc." and the envelope addressed in this case to Miss Jones alone.

The Hostess and Her Hat

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper, or improper, for the hostess to wear a hat at a tea she gives in a private room in a club or hotel?

Answer: At an open tea, no matter where she gives this, she does not wear a hat; which is curious since at her own lunch party she does. The only exception would be a tea that is a garden party. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad however to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "Manners on the Street." Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y.

Announce Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Vandenburg of 210 Downs street announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth M., to Martin P. Nilan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Nilan of Port Ewen. The wedding will take place in the near future.

Missionary Society Picnic

The missionary society of the Hurley Reformed Church held its meeting today at the home of Mrs. Charles Gustafson in West Shore. After the meeting the members enjoyed a picnic luncheon.

Twaalfskill Ladies' Day

Ladies' Day at the Twaalfskill Club will be held on Wednesday, June 25, instead of Tuesday. The hostesses will be Mrs. Frederick Carr and Mrs. Edwin C. Fassett. On Tuesday the ladies will be the guests of the Dutchess Golf and Country Club in Poughkeepsie.

Card Parties

Mystic Court, No. 62, O. of A., will sponsor a card party at the home of Mrs. G. Brown, 196 Hurley avenue, this evening at 8 o'clock. The public is invited.

Charlotte Guest Herbert Will Inherit $20,000

New York, June 17 (Special)—Mrs. Charlotte Guest Herbert of 78 Wilson avenue, Kingston, will share in property left by her aunt, the late Elma Guest Cokelair, whose estate was appraised here today by the New York State Transfer Tax Department. She will receive approximately $20,000 at the expiration of life trusts.

Mrs. Cokelair left her residual estate in trust for the benefit of her sister, Lottie W. Guest, of New York, and her brother, Charles Guest of Mexico City. At the death of the survivor nephews and nieces will benefit.

Mrs. Cokelair died December 6, 1938. She was the widow of Isaac W. Cokelair, vice president and director of the International Silver Co. Her property was appraised today at $210,170 gross value, $197,165 net.

New Ruling Makes 202 Men Eligible For W. P. A. Force

In Block Park, and a stage and new toilets in Hasbrouck Park. Unfinished work on Miller's Lane and Alcazar avenue and other streets is expected to be completed this summer.

Steel pipe to be used in building the intercepting sewer leading to the new sewage disposal plant is expected to arrive shortly so that work of constructing the sewer may be started.

B.P.W. Street Work

Acting Superintendent Max Oppenheimer reported that the work of reconstructing Pearl street was completed with the exception of one block, and that he planned to start the work of retreating West Chestnut street from Montrepose avenue to Broadway, today.

Later it is planned to reconstruct Wall street, from Pearl to Franklin streets; the Hone street hill, and a section on Delaware avenue.

Purchase of a portable pump for $177 was ordered.

Start Civil Suits

The board also directed Corporation Counsel John M. Cashin to institute civil suits against Mildred J. Heisman of Jefferson avenue and Leslie A. Munson of Port Ewen, for the purpose of collecting damages in the sum of $91.72 when a street light pole at the corner of Main and Wall streets was demolished in a collision between the cars owned by Mrs. Heisman and Mr. Munson.

City Engineer's Report

City Engineer James G. Norton submitted a written report of the work of his office during May. He stated that his office had investigated deeds and old village records for a description of Converse street, and he had plotted the center line and was busy running property lines of the Wiltwyck Holding Company and Vincent A. Gorman for the purpose of constructing a street and parking area between Converse and Fair streets.

A survey had been made of all sanitary and storm water sewers and water lines on Broadway from Dedrick to Cornell street. Investigated sewers in Cornell, Thomas, Railroad avenue and Greenkill avenue. Giving line and grade for sewers on Hayes street, Plymouth avenue, Glen street, Hasbrouck avenue, Miller's Lane and sewage disposal plant.

Locating water lines and gas mains along siphon line. Obtaining data for diversion chambers at various streets. Running new line across swamp to Esopus creek for storm sewer outlet to Roosevelt Park. Investigating proposed storm sewer in West O'Reilly street.

Re-laid 304 feet of 6 inch water pipe on Alcazar avenue and started excavation on Wall street.

Sewers had been laid in Glen street, Plymouth avenue, Miller's Lane and Hasbrouck avenue.

At the sewage disposal plant the site had been cleared and 300 cubic yards excavated for settling basins.

At Forsyth Park work had been done on the water line on the upper level and tool house. Stage had been completed and grading of roller skating rink and tennis court done.

Oppenheimer's Report

Acting Superintendent Oppenheimer in a written report of activities during May reported that Smith avenue had been started on May 3 and was entirely reconstructed with a penetration type road. The street was completed on May 29. There had been 27,670 gallons of asphalt and 1,598 tons of stone used on the job.

Playgrounds and parks were opened and park attendants placed in the various parks.

The board audited bills and then adjourned.

DAILY MENUS

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE

Here's a bridge foursome menu suited for any gathering.

Enough for Four: Fish Mousse, Buttered Asparagus, Crisp Radishes, Hot Biscuits, Currant Jelly, Chilled Diced Fruit, Vanilla Cookies, Coffee (Hot or Iced).

Fish Mousse: 1 tablespoon granulated gelatin, 2 cups cold water, 2 egg yolks, beaten, 1 tablespoon flour, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon paprika, 3 tablespoons vinegar, 1/4 cup water.

1 cup fish (shrimp, salmon, crab), 1 tablespoon chopped sweet pickles, 1/2 cup diced celery, 1/2 cup whipped cream.

Soak gelatine five minutes in water. Beat yolks in double boiler top, add sugar, flour, mustard and seasonings. Blend and add vinegar and water. Cook until hot and creamy. Stir constantly, add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Cook and chill until partly thick. Fold in rest of ingredients. Pour into mold, rinsed out of cold water or greased with glycerine. Chill until firm. Unmold on lettuce or crease and pass mayonnaise.

Vanilla Cookies: (Fine Summer Treat) 2/3 cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 3 eggs, beaten, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1/4 teaspoon almond extract, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons grated orange rind, 1/4 cup cream (sweet), 3 cups flour (pastry).

Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs and beat well. Lightly mix in rest of ingredients and chill dough. Break off portions of dough and flatten down three inches apart in greased baking sheets. Sprinkle with sugar. Bake eight minutes, or until brown, in moderate oven.

Upside Down Course of War Must Be Nightmare to Veterans of 1914 Conflict

collaboration terms between France and her German conqueror.

According to this story the Germans laid down the rule that it was up to the French to use their own men to defend their own territory. But, that once such territory was successfully invested by the British, the Germans would in their own good time move in for keeps, and the French never would get the territory back.

Thus the soldiers of Vichy are spurred to arms not only by the physical fact that a British invader is on their soil, but by what for them, is far worse, the specter of irretrievable loss of their empire to the Germans who stamp, already, across half their homeland. Thus they make use of what weapons they can, even the airplanes of the conqueror.

Curiously enough France thus has filled the role of Italy as an Axis ally capable of fighting an independent battle, and Frenchmen take the places of the Italians who leaped upon them, knife in hand, when France was gasping a year ago.

Italy's empire is gone; militarily she is exhausted, sustained only by the strength of Germany.

Conserve Gasoline

What has tire inflation to do with increased gasoline consumption? This is an important consideration today with thoughts turning nationally to ways and means of making the gasoline supply go farthest as an aid in defense planning. Tire engineers, according to Bert Wilde, local Good-year dealer, have over a period of years made extensive tests and comparisons, finding that a slight reduction in air content of tires increases gasoline consumption. "On the 6.00-16 size, popular on a large group of cars in current use," said Mr. Wilde, "28 pounds of air is a normal pressure, but reduced to 24 pounds, or say roughly 14 per cent, will increase the car owner's gasoline consumption two-and-one-half per cent. That is, if the highways over which he travels are smooth, but if they're rough, he will get even less miles per gallon. That is a good reason for watching tire inflations—seeing that they are up to recommended figures, so that the owner will get the ultimate safe mile possible from each tire," he continued.

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, June 17—A group of 45 children and adults representing the West Shokan Bushkill and Shokan schools made a bus trip to Albany Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Van Ness of Woodstock and visiting friends, Mr. and Mrs. Case J. Gwynne of Woodridge, N. J., were Sunday afternoon callers at West Shokan Heights.

A number of metropolitan visitors are being entertained at Maple Dell Farm. The condition of senior hostess, Mrs. Anna Avery, continues to improve.

Edward Schwab and associates have purchased the standing timber on Edmund C. Burgher's wood lands.

Harlowe McLean of Brodhead was a Kingston caller Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel D. Scudder and family are spending the summer season at their West Shokan Heights property.

Leland P. Hamilton of Oneonta, with his daughters, Lois and son, Leland, Jr., called on friends here Sunday afternoon. The Hamiltons were formerly for many years among prominent summer guests entertained by Mrs. Cornelia Bishop. A few years ago Mr. Hamilton sponsored through "Rotary" an appearance in the West Shokan Baptist Church of Hazel Hurst and her famous seeing-eye dog, "Babe." Mr. Hamilton stated that "Babe" had since died of a two-day illness, but fortunately Miss Hurst was able to replace the faithful animal with one equally trained and devoted to its task.

Robert Bishop of Hobart was a caller in town one evening last week while en route home from a trip to New York city. He had recently attended the wedding of his sister, Olive Cornelia Bishop, and William Carrington Price, a United States Army officer, on June 7, at the Blackburg Baptist Church, Blacksburg, Va.

Miss Mildred Roe has returned home from her employment at Mrs. Harvard Anderson's in Accord.

Mr. and Mrs. George D. Shimer, recent Main street newlyweds, have gone to New Jersey to their Bud Lake summer resort property.

Little Miss Arlene Geyer from Indiana, who has been visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Bertha Shimer, is now staying with her mother, Mrs. Marcelle Maier, at Beechford Farms.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Burgher and neighbor, Mrs. Lottie Campbell, spent Sunday evening, with his sister, Miss Ollie Burgher.

Mrs. Florence Bell is now in charge of the West Shokan Sunday school as superintendent during the summer absence of Mrs. Mae Shimer.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Korittke and daughter, Helen, of Watson Hollow, entertained a call Sunday evening by Mrs. Mattie Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Kerr of West Hurley spent several days over the week-end with his sister, Miss Jennie Kerr, at Watson Hollow.

The Myron Silkworths of Kingston entertained at a picnic gathering of friends Sunday afternoon.

Clarence Rowland Elected President

Succeeds Principal Dumm as Head of Y.M.C.A.

Clarence S. Rowland was elected president of the Kingston Y. M. C. A. at the annual meeting of the association held on Tuesday evening at the "Y." Other officers elected were: Alexander B. Shufeldt, vice president; Clifford G. Rose, secretary, and Emil G. Boessneck, treasurer. Mr. Rowland succeeds Clarence Dumm as president of the "Y."

A. T. Young of Kingston, John G. M. Hilton of Saugerties and Edward C. DeWitt of Kingston, were elected directors for three-year terms, while Chester A. Baltz, Sr., Principal Clarence Dumm of the high school, and Emil G. Boessneck, were re-elected directors for three-year terms each.

The program of activities placed in effect at the "Y" by the new general secretary, George Good-fellow, was given the stamp of approval while Secretary Good-fellow was congratulated on the new public relations policy adopted, and also for the various innovations made since he became secretary including the recent Hobby Show, which proved so successful.

One Generally Helps
Pueblo, Colo. (AP)—William Hyde,

camera shop proprietor, had been giving sympathetic counsel to a young customer who was having difficulty getting photographic results. One day the boy came running in excitedly. "I've found the trouble," he said, jubilantly. "There wasn't any lens on the camera!"

REMEMBER ME!

With summer coming on... and the children's vacation in the offing... it's time to think about their summer. Plan to keep them off the streets, and out from under your feet, at the same time. Build a home playground.

It takes very little to please a child, and it costs so little to build, or have built, the things that would please him most. Swings, slides, sand boxes, and "teeter-totters" are just a few pieces of playground equipment that are inexpensive to build.

Let us tell you more about a playground in your own back yard. Come in or call us today. Information and estimates are free.

U.S.O. Campaign Brings in $2,232

House to House Canvass to Finish Saturday

A total of $2,232.72 so far raised in the United Service Organization's drive in Kingston was reported last night by Edward Coykendall, treasurer of the Kingston branch.

Workers in the campaign to raise Kingston's quota of $4,700 are still busily engaged in making a house to house canvass in the city, and it is planned to complete the canvass by Saturday night.

Final reports of the success of the house to house canvass will not be known until the work of calling at each home in Kingston is completed.

Chairman Allen A. Baker expects that the quota set for Kingston will be oversubscribed when the campaign is brought to a close.
